

WYKPSA CIRCULAR

by Wah Yan College Kowloon Past Students' Association Limited

Message from the Chairman

Dear WYK Past Students,

It is my honor and pleasure to be elected as the Chairman of Wah Yan College Kowloon Past Students Association Limited (“WYKPSA”) again after 15 years when I first became the Chairman. One may question why I want to be the Chairman again as I have been involved in WYKPSA’s affairs anyway in the past 15 years. Thus, perhaps I can share my visions with you.

First, 2014-2015 will be Wah Yan College Kowloon (“WYK”)’s 90th anniversary and similar to five years before, there will be a series of celebration events to be organized. WYKPSA will be the main sponsoring body to organize the Celebration Dinner in addition to the involvement at the Walkathon, Jesuit Educational Forum and Concert. For those who participated in the celebration events 5 years ago, you would know the workload and commitments required to make all events successful. As a result, I simply hope based upon my previous experience in joining the Steering Committee in 2008-2009, I would be able to contribute what I learned and applied. Furthermore, hope such experience and knowledge will be passed onwards to the younger generations so when we celebrate WYK’s 100th Birthday, I can be a simple participant/audience!

Second, as one would agree, sustainability is one of the key factors for WYKPSA to grow. Therefore, I hope my deep involvement will make those who have been joining the Executive Committee (“Exco”) but not active and those who have not joined the Exco be influenced to become more active in participating in WYKPSA’s affairs. WYKPSA’s membership is much bigger than the time when I was the Chairman first time and hence, we require more intelligent and capable resources to build WYKPSA better and stronger. We are all proud of our Alma Mater and so, we should do whatever we are required to carry on our tradition, i.e., brotherhood bonding from generations to generations.

Last but not least, in order to make WYK’s unique small class teaching successful, I hereby pledge you all to do your part in soliciting donations from our peer groups, i.e., families, friends and classmates, to support our Anniversaries Celebration events. Our current students and teaching staff require suitable and reasonable facilities and assistance to continue the small class teaching characteristics. I deeply trust that our current students will benefit from such teaching approach and methodology and will perform well and excel academically and intelligently.

Looking forward to working with you closely this year and your unreserved support and help are much demanded and appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Sam Yu
Chairman 1998-1999 and 2014-2015

Old Boys' Choir

Formally established as an interest group in 2008 in the wake of the first Homecoming Concert organised by the Past Students' Association, the Old Boys' Choir (OBC) reunites choral lovers of Wah Yan across many generations. There are more than 80 members registered, ranging from the classes of 1970s to 2010s. Fun is shared and brotherhood is bolstered through a series of on- and offstage activities every year.

A number of ceremonial events with the OBC's performance will come up this year, in particular for the 90th Anniversary of WYK and a planned Christmas concert with a host school. The OBC welcomes any brothers of WYK who like to sing songs aloud and to enjoy moments of togetherness.

How I Learned English in Wah Yan College Kowloon

Yu Fong-ying (class of 1961)

---- anecdotes from a diminishing memory trove

1. Preamble

Tens of thousands of students have learned the subject English and graduated from Wah Yan College Kowloon in its 85 and counting years of existence. What is the merit of one student writing about his individual, and more likely than not, idiosyncratic, experience in learning English over 50 years ago? The learners, the teachers, the teaching methods – they are all different today, and will be different tomorrow. What useful purposes would such an account serve other than indulgence towards the nostalgic reminiscences of a senior and maybe his peers?

In reply, I would say first that recounting my learning experience more than half a century ago, from 1955 to 1963 to be exact, would add a little to the informal folk history of Wah Yan College Kowloon and of education during that time in Hong Kong. There is a stronger, personal reason. Under the influence of Mr. Patrick O’Flanagan, my English Literature teacher in Lower and Upper 6 Arts, I studied English in the University of Hong Kong and took up teaching English as a career from 1966 on. Been at it for 46 years and counting, though after about 30 years of class teaching and one immigration, I turned to tutoring students one on one. (In this way, I cannot hope to emulate the record of Mr. Francis Kong who taught English classes in WYK for some 45 years, 35 as a teacher, 1960-1995, then as a volunteer teacher after his retirement. He passed away in 2005.) I want to see the learning of English from the perspective, if not vantage point, of some knowledge of teaching it. I want to connect the past with the present, or make sense of the past in the light of the present, thereby gaining a deeper understanding of my experiences.

I hope to be as close to what happened, or my memories of what happened, as the reminiscences of an elderly man can allow, and to separate re-construction from construction as far as possible.

Alumni News

Choi Kwan Yeung, Brian, who completed Form 1-3 at WYK between 2006 -2009, is recently organizing a fund-raising recital to support his living expenses at the reputed New England Conservatory, Massachusetts - the oldest independent music school in the United States. He comes from a moderate family whose parents are so dedicated to their child's musical development. Brian left WYK for the HK Academy for Performing Arts after his completion of junior secondary. After three years of study there, he has been admitted to the NEC and studied violin performance with Paul Biss. His outstanding academic and musical performance enable him to receive full scholarships of tuition fees for the coming year of study at NEC. However, he needs to fund-raise for the monthly living expenses of US 1700 as well as air passage.

If you are interested to attend the concert and support Brian, please email him at cky\_brian@yahoo.com.hk.

Date of concert: 3pm-4pm, North Point Methodist Church (北角衛理堂) , Sunday, 6th July 2014

Programme: Works by Kreisler, Wieniawski and Paganini
